From design to finished product

Product development and engineering

Every single Massive product is created and developed in-house by designers working hand in hand with product and test engineers. They use the latest computer technology to develop 3D models, thus reducing development time and ensuring a smooth transition to the actual production lines, while guaranteeing that each product meets with Massive's high standards of quality.

Supervised manufacturer's testing lab

Each product Massive produces meets European regulations and standards. To ensure this is so, Massive has its own in-house test laboratory, officially certified by CEBEC (the Belgian standards organization). Products, no matter where they have been made, are tested for their durability, thermal resistance, colourfastness, electrical safety and in some cases, even to see whether they are waterproof. All Massive products carry the CE mark, as proof that they have been manufactured in accordance with existing European standards.

Production

One of Massive's strengths is that it controls its own production plants. These plants are equipped with some of the most modern production technology in the industry, encompassing everything from raw material processing up to the final decoration and assembly of finished items. In line with our scrupulous attention to quality and our continuous search for improved efficiency, factories are encouraged to specialise in particular products or groups of products.
